NO PLUM PUDDING

How a Good Housewife Was Compelled to Disappoint Her Husband

Several days ago one of the good housewives of the Fifth Ward opened a bottle of wine, intending to make sauce for plum pudding. The weather being cold, she placed the bottle on the back porch where it would keep cool.

A short time after she had placed the wine on the porch a hobo applied for something to eat, which was given him. He had hardly gotten out when another gentleman of leisure made application for a handout; and during the day there were numerous requests from members of the Union of Never Sweats for remembrances from the cooking range, so many, in fact, that the good lady began to think that the local Union was certainly entertaining the National Assembly of Free Lunch Grabbers.

The following day she had her plum pudding ready for the wine, and when she went to the porch to get it, the bottle had very quietly disappeared.

She used the telephone, inquiring of several members of the family who were down town at work, if they knew where the wine had gone.

One of them suggested that she interview one of her hobo friends the next time he came around.

A WESTERN Editor has come to the conclusion that the people who desire "puffs" in his paper must pay the following prices:

"For telling the public that a man is a successful citizen, when everybody knows he is as lazy as a Government mule, $2.75; referring to a deceased citizen as one who is mourned by the entire community, when he knows he will only be missed by the poker circles, $1.08; referring to some gallivanting female as an estimable lady whom it is a pleasure to meet, when every business man in town would rather see the devil coming, horns, boots and all, than to see her coming towards them, $3.10; calling an ordinary pulpit pounder an eminent divine, 60¢; sending a tough sinner to heaven with poetry, $5."

To these rates THE LEDGER adds 25% for full position—"top of column next to pure reading matter," or "first following reading matter," or "surrounded on all sides by pure reading matter." Postal Money Orders and Certified Checks not accepted; cash down on desk before starting to read the poetry.

Governor Pattison of Ohio is a very sick man, suffering from nervous prostration.

The shipment of coal to the South from Pittsburgh has been resumed, and this is taken to mean that there will be no strike by the bituminous miners of that district.

Late reports from points in the South are that the cold wave was more severe than at first reported. In many places ice was a quarter of an inch thick, and cotton and corn just planted have been killed.

Secret police have discovered and seized a quantity of arms, ammunition and dynamite which was sent by express from the interior of the island to Havana and carried to a private house. Three arrests have been made in connection with the seizure. The authorities declare there is no cause for apprehension, but the police reserve has been increased in view of a possible demonstration with the object of preventing the convening of the new Congress April 2d.

At Chicago Judge Humphrey decided that the individuals indicted by the Federal Grand Jury on the charge of combining in the beef industry in restraint of trade, are entitled to immunity from punishment, but that the corporations must stand trial. He upheld the plea of the packers in their contention that they were compelled by the Government to furnish information, saying that under no circumstances could it be construed that the defendants in the case had volunteered evidence. He declared that it was evident that all of the information had been compiled.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. M. E. Shotwell, of 103 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot express the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, headache, loss of appetite. I could not sleep and would walk the floor almost every night.

"I had three doctors and got no better, and life was a burden. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has worked wonders for me.

"I am well woman, my nervousness is all gone and my friends say I look ten years younger."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick, weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.

In replying to President Barbour, who spoke for Consular Reform, Speaker Cannon was careful not to commit himself for or against the measure. HENRY CLEWS, the Banker and eminent financial writer, gives an illustration of the inner workings of some corporations—

"After the recent unfortunate experience it would appear that the one-man-power management of corporations had better end, as well as so-called dummy directors, and give place to open and above-board management; also to the frequent publication of statements by expert bookkeepers as a result of a thorough examination. I once knew a man of very great business renown who during the last thirty years of his life was much sought after because he possessed the qualifications necessary to make him a most satisfactory director, hence he was connected with a very large number of companies. He was a man of wealth, retired from business, and possessed a corporeal capacity, but it was of the avoidupois kind. His mental qualifications consisted in his always attending punctually all the meetings. He came early and stayed to the end; watched closely to determine which way the majority vote was going, and always went with it. He was never known to open his mouth except when the luncheon was served after the Directors' meeting had adjourned. He was much lamented by corporation managers when he died. He was their favorite Director, on the ground, as claimed, that he gave no trouble and was perfectly satisfied with the result of every meeting when he was handed his $5 gold piece for attendance, which caused him to go home rejoicing."

The Ledger's Washington Letter

Special Correspondence Public Ledger.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 19th, 1906.

That progressive body, the Maysville Board of Trade, was the only commercial or manufacturing body from the state of Kentucky represented at the National Consular Reform Convention, which met at the New Willard Hotel last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Through the kind influence of President Duley and Secretary Carran, your humble servant was delegated to represent the Maysville Board of Trade at this notable gathering of the leading commercial bodies and manufacturing institutions of the United States. Delegates were present from Maine to California and two from Paris, France.

The object of the meeting was to hasten Congressional action upon the proposed Lodge Bill to reform, reorganize and systematize the Consular Service of the United States. When it is understood there is absolutely no system pursued in appointing, promoting and classifying our Consuls to foreign countries, and that there are 1,000 of such agents representing the commercial interests of this country scattered throughout the world, it is self-evident that the present plan is obsolete and inadequate to the progressive development of the United States.

This Consular Convention was composed of many eminent men from every department of commerce and industry, and the two days session at the Willard was very harmonious and eminently satisfactory. Resolutions were adopted endorsing the Lodge Bill, and Senator Lodge himself came before the convention and in a pleasing address explained the needs of immediate Consular reform as embodied in his bill which has passed the Senate and is now before the House. Secretary of State Root and Representative Adams of Pennsylvania also addressed the meeting.

Wednesday at noon the entire delegation went to the Capitol and was received by Speaker Cannon in his private office. Mr. Cannon is the boss of the Lower House and is a very able, a very witty and "devilish sly" old statesman.

In replying to President Barbour, who spoke for Consular Reform, Speaker Cannon was careful not to commit himself for or against the measure. He said with a sly look: "However, gentlemen, it is always hard to tell what the House will do. God only knows, and sometimes I doubt if He knows what the Senate will do."

At 2:30 o'clock p. m. the delegates went in a body to the White House, where they were formally received by President Roosevelt in the East Room. The President delivered a short but telling address in the limitable Rooseveltian style. Mr. Roosevelt was very cordial to all and shook hands and talked with each delege-gate. We remained in the East Room for over three-quarters of an hour. We have met the President many times before but never saw him looking in better condition and "fighting trim." He is 5 feet 9 inches tall, and weighs 210 pounds. He looks like he could thresh his weight in wildcats; but he keeps himself well in hand and he guides the old ship of state with a master hand.

The New Willard Hotel is the leading hotel here and is one of the most elegant and expensive in the world. The entire tenth floor is given up to banquet rooms, lobbies and retiring rooms. Here many of the great meetings, balls, conventions, etc., of the Capital City are held. The interior is magnificent in white and gold and marble. There are 1,000 golden rattan chairs in one convention room, where we met. The ladies' and gentlemen's reception saloon is over 200 feet long and extends clear through the center of the hotel from North to South. The immense dining-rooms are on each side of the saloon and an orchestra of ten musicians discourses the sweetest theatrical numbers for several hours every day. It is rather expensive to put up at the Willard—$5 a day for the cheapest room, with board or bath. Some suites rent from $400 to $600 per month, but the service and menu are par excellant.

Wednesday afternoon we had the honor of meeting and having a brief chat with our most distinguished Kentuckian, John G. Carlisle. He is looking better than we ever saw him and one would not take him to be over 60 years of age.

One of the truly great sights of Washington is "Center Market" on the South side of Pennsylvania Avenue. This is one of the finest and largest market places in the entire world. The building is built of steel, stone and brick, and covers several acres of ground right in the heart of the city. Every Thursday and Saturday mornings hundreds of handsome equipages, carriages and automobiles can be seen surrounding Center Market, while their wealthy owners, men and women, are inside bickering and bargaining with the butcher and vendor of all kinds of establis and delicacies for the table from every part of the world.

Many of the elite of Washington do their own marketing personally and select with great care their Sunday dinner.

The net earnings of The Evening Star are reported to amount to $1,000 a day. They clear $20,000 a year from Church and religious notices.

The Times is issued three times week-day afternoons and sells for 1c. The price of The Star is 2c and The Post 3c. All issue 60 Sunday editions. Frank Minney of New York was the Times and has just erected a new building and plant—marble, ten stories, costing $500,000.

There are scores of periodicals and other publications and an illustrated society magazine called "The American Spectator," which is handsomely published and ably edited by Professor Ruoff, an eminent publicist and scientist.

of Maysville for Governor of the Bluegrass State, a leading Kentucky Republican now in Washington declared that the distinguished Senator from Limestone has the call and will be nominated if certain well-known political bosses of the George B. Cox school do not jump in again and be allowed to make a mess of affairs in old Kentucky.

Senator Cox is recognized as one of the purest, best and most practical men in his state and the way things are running on the other side of the fence, the Senator has more than a fair chance to sit in the Gubernatorial chair. His honesty and qualifications are acknowledged even by his opponents and he enjoys the utmost esteem and respect of the whole people of his Nation, county and state to whom he has given such faithful and valuable service.

The Louisville Herald recently said editorially:

"Quiet and unobtrusive, but firm as adamant for the right, Senator Cox is progressive in the really healthfulness of that term. Before any unbosomed, old-fashioned Republican Convention his name is sure of due recognition. If the nomination comes to him he will be found equal to its responsibilities. If it goes to another he will be loyal to the standards on which his fine services throw such lustre."

Take up the banner of Senator Cox for Governor of our old Commonwealth.

President Roosevelt is known to be very friendly to Mr. Cox and to admire his integrity and the virtuous reputation he bears in his own state. It is said that the President is growing disgusted with certain Kentucky Republicans management and he is only waiting for the opportunity to hand a few bosses their cones.

During the present session of Congress 12,000 bills have been introduced in both Houses; 66,000 bills have been introduced during the past five years. About one-fourth of the bills are passed by both Houses and are signed by the President. The Senate and Congress at present are all but swamped by the tremendous mass of bills and measures now waiting favorable action, the waste basket or the dump of oblivion.

One of the gigantic measures now before the National Law-makers is the codification and revision of the statute laws of the Nation. The first installment of this vast work has been under way since 1897. The entire Code is to be revised and it is said that the new Revised Statutes, including between 8,000 and 9,000 sections of law, will be passed upon during the present session of Congress.

Realizing the urgent demand from Bench and Bar that this great work be completed with dispatch, Speaker Cannon has consented that night sessions of the House be held, and these will be begun as soon as the first installment reaches the House. Each subdivision, as passed, will carry a repeal clause and will immediately supersede all United States laws of similar purport.

A prominent Minister, in his last Sunday sermon, said that the general disposition and trend of modern man and statesmanship was to leave their religion and Christianity at home and come to Washington to worship Baal and have a good time generally. He said the Capital City was being desecrated by the very men and women, who, at their homes in the distant cities and states, passed for humble Christians and true followers of the Cross. When they come to Washington they laid all serious thoughts aside and aimed to have a good time. He said such people only made a mockery of the Church and a playground of the Nation's Capital, where the leaders should be the exemplars of religion and morality.

True the world, and Washington particularly, is a vast and mysterious mixture of good and evil. Luckily the good predominates.

The new site for the George Washington University lies on Sixteenth street and only three hundred yards South of the White House grounds. It adjoins the new marble "Continental Hall" of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the five acres of ground comprise the old Van Ness mansion grounds, one of the most-grown and venerable antiquities of this city. The old mansion, stables and lodges at the entrance all stand in a good state of preservation. They are built of brick, gravel and cement and all could be repaired to their former old Colonial use and beauty at very little expense. But these historic structures are soon to be torn down to give way to splendid university buildings costing nearly a million dollars.

During the days when General Washington was actively engaged in supervising the laying out and platting of the Capital City, the land on which the Van Ness mansion stands belonged to old Davy Burns, an early settler, who by hard knocks acquired much of the land wherein the city was afterwards built. Davy Burns's little log cabin stood in 1790, and many years thereafter, on this ground. The present mansion was erected nearly a hundred years ago by General Van Ness, a New Yorker and a gallant soldier of the American Revolution. He was a member of Congress after the close of the struggle for Independence and fell in love and married Davy Burns's only daughter and built the house bearing his, Van Ness's, name. For many years during the early period of the Nation the Van Ness mansion was the scene of the most genial and magnificent hospitality and was one of the notable houses of Washington. This was after old Davy had passed away, however, as he was only a gruff and crusty old pioneer. It is related that when General Washington was dickerling with old Davy for a tract of land for municipal purposes that he turned angrily upon the "Father of his Country," and said: "Look here, George Washington, you had better leave me and my land alone that I have worked so hard for. What would you be today if you hadn't married the widow Custis? You wouldn't have a dollar in the world if it was not for your wife and relatives."

And old Davy only spoke the truth, for although General Washington was worth over a half a million dollars—a great fortune in those days—and controlled the estates of Mt. Vernon and Arlington, yet in fee simple he was quite a poor man.

By the way, Washington's pew in Christ Church at Alexandria is still occupied by a real live Washington, and General Lee's pew is occupied by his daughter, Miss Mildred Lee.

President Roosevelt will use to sign the State-Hood Bill a pen made from a quill taken from an Oklahoma eagle's wing.

There are 1,607 Government clerks in Washington now drawing salary who are sixty-five years old or more. Of those seventy-five years old or more there are 585.

The total money drawn from the Treasury by these 1,607 old clerks is $1,986,177.06.

There has always been more or less mystery regarding the remains of John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of President Lincoln. It has been contended that the body of Booth was never found and was never buried. On the other hand, relatives of Booth asserted that they had recovered the body from the Government at Washington and interred the remains in a cemetery at Baltimore. This is generally accepted as a truthful solution of the matter. I write these lines only a block away from Ford's Theater, where the dire tragedy was enacted.

The Diocese of Washington, presided over by Bishop Satterlee, is staggering under a debt of $300,000. One Church, St. Thomas, near Dupont Circle, has a debt of $60,000. The tenth year of the consecration of the Bishop of Washington will be celebrated next Sunday, March 25th. Bishop Satterlee has begun immediate and active work to lift this entire debt on his diocese and to this end has incorporated what is called "The Bishop of Washington Fund" for that purpose. Over $50,000 has been subscribed so far towards the fund and the chances are flattering for the payment of the entire debt before Easter Sunday.

The Lower House of Congress today passed, under suspension of rules, the Consular Reform Bill, and it will become a law as soon as it reaches the President.

The Maysville Board of Trade helped put the measure through—and don't you forget it.

Things go along in Washington like they do in other big cities. At the Columbia Theater the other night, a man fell from the gallery to the dress circle without breaking his neck. The next night at the same theater a young actor named Gordon killed himself behind the scenes while his sweetheath was singing on the stage.

Francis La Fleah and Rosa Bowaisas, two full-blooded Indians, were married Friday night. La Fleah is a clerk in the Indian Office and his bride recently came from the Chippewa Tribe out West.

Wednesday night about 10 o'clock Mr. Charles Fister heard a noise in his henhouse. Taking his repeating shotgun and secreting himself close by he saw two Negroes emerge with a sack of his choice hens. Charley immediately opened fire and pumped four charges at the fleeing darkies, who left their sack of chickens.

STRENGTH-CREATOR.

Vinol Guaranteed by Physicians and Over Two Thousand Leading Drugists as the Best Strength Creator Known to Medicine.

This is because Vinol is the latest scientific production of the greatest tonic rehilder the world has ever known, namely, cod liver oil.

In Vinol the system-clogging, nauseating oil is eliminated, and the medicinal, curative elements known to exist in the cod's liver are administered in a highly concentrated form, therefore, a preparation containing all these medicinal, curative and body-building elements, free from oil or grease, must be the best strength creator possible to produce.

In Vinol you know what you are taking, for everything it contains is named on the back label of every bottle.

This is why Vinol is so unqualifiedly recommended by physicians and guaranteed by over two thousand of the leading druggists of the United States as a body-builder and strength-creator for old people, weak women, puny children, after sickness and for all pulmonary diseases. The doctor knows what he is giving and the patient knows what he is taking.

Our leading druggist, Mr. John C. Pecor, says, "We sell Vinol on a positive guarantee that it is and will do all we claim for it or refund money without question."

This in itself proves the truth of all statements published about Vinol in this paper.

TWICE-TOLD TESTIMONY.

Maysville People Are Doing All They Can For Fellow Sufferers.

Maysville testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Maysville who suffer from bad backs and kidney ills. Let any anfefer doubt that the cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills are thorough and lasting, we produce confirmed proof-statements from Maysville people saying that the cures told of years ago were permanent. Here's a Maysville case.

George N. Crawford, blacksmith and wheelwright, at Second and Lee streets, and living at 216 Lee street, Maysville, Ky., says:

"In the spring of 1900 I gave a testimonial telling what Doan's Kidney Pills had done for me, and I am pleased to say I can just as warmly recommend this remedy now as I did then. No other medicine ever gave me such prompt and positive relief from backache and kidney trouble as Doan's Kidney Pills procured at J. James Wood & Son's Drugstore, and I believe them to be by far the best remedy for kidneys there is. Suffers from sprain troubles ought to give it a trial."
